Chinese Festivals in Hong Kong Barbara E. Ward

It comes as a surprise to many to discover that Hong Kong, outwardly so modern, still celebrates a wide range of traditional Chinese festivals. Because many festivals for gods and ghosts are now forbidden in mainland China, Hong Kong remains one of the few places in the world to watch these fascinating Chinese traditions. Researched and written by noted social anthropologist Barbara E. Ward, a Fellow of Newnham College, Cambridge, who was closely involved with Hong Kong for over forty years. At the time of her death in January 1983, she was preparing a book on the Boat People of Hong Kong, among whom she lived for several years. First published in 1982, this redesigned edition will retain the original lively text with updated information, festival calendar, and some 90 vivid color photos taken by Hong Kong photographer Joan Law Mee Nar who adopts a field-work photo-anthropological approach for the photographs of this book.
