"Reflections" is a series of humorous poems, yet factual in many ways, that captures the historical and cultural aspects of Guyana, a small and beautiful country on the north eastern coastline of South America. While this anthology is primarily based on the experiences of the author living in his homeland, and now in the USA, there is something in it which every Guyanese can relate to, and pass on to their children. Written in simple language and sometimes with a tinge of creole, it is also intended that readers of other cultures learn and appreciate our history, customs and beliefs.
